BURLINGTON TO BUILD

Joint Arrangements with North-Western to Thermopolis.

A dispatch from Omaha of the 10th inst. says that General Charles F. Manderson, general solicitor of the Burlington, has returned from Cheyenne, where he went last Monday to arrange with B. T. White, representing the Northwestern, for the joint use of tracks by the Burlington and Northwestern through the Hot Springs reservation in the Shoshone country. The board of land commissioners of the state of Wyoming and the board of charities and reforms granted the two lines the right to build a line of railroad for their joint use. "This right," says General Manderson, "carries 200 feet in width of right of way. The Burlington has arranged for station grounds and depots in the town of Thermopolis. The point of departure from the Toluca branch of the Burlington will either be Frannie or Garland."

Will Organize K. C. Order.

At a meeting held last Friday night, in which a number of our citizens participated, steps were taken for the organization of a Knights of Columbus court in this city within the next few weeks. This order is well known throughout the west, where it is fast becoming one of the foremost fraternal insurance and social organizations. Committees were appointed and the preliminary steps taken to hasten the work. This will bring to this city a very large crowd of visitors on the day when the initiation takes place. This order is of a religious character, being composed of members of the Catholic faith exclusively, or rather those who are active in the exercise of their religious duties, as laid down by the church.

Death of Miss Mae Kennedy.

Miss Mae Kennedy, sister of Willis Kennedy, one of the popular freight conductors running out of this city, departed this life last Sunday morning, after a lingering illness with the dread disease, consumption. The young lady was known to be in the shadow of death for several days. All that human skill could suggest was done to restore her to health, but to no avail, and Sunday morning at ten o'clock she breathed her last. As is so often the case with victims of this malady, a short time before she died, Miss Kennedy arose from her couch, remarking that she felt so much better and was sure she would soon recover her health. She walked across the room unaided, but suddenly complained of losing her eyesight, when she was assisted to the bed and within a few seconds life was gone.

The death of this most estimable young lady is surrounded with conditions that are indeed pathetic. Miss Kennedy, together with her brother Willis, was the only survivor of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Kennedy, who were among the most esteemed citizens of Alliance. The family consisted of nine children all of whom have passed away within a short time of each other, with the exception of Willis who was the only survivor of the family to follow his beloved sister to the grave. Miss Kennedy was just at the threshold of womanhood and possessed a pleasing and ladylike disposition that drew friends around her in an endearing circle. She was a student at one of the prominent sister convents in Omaha through the past year and returned to this city during the holidays, when she began to show signs of failing health. A trained nurse attended Miss Kennedy and the devoted brother who now alone mourns her demise, left nothing undone to smooth the path of the precious life that was surely nearing the portal of heaven. When the devoted sisters, who moulded the tender mind of their pupil, heard of her serious physical condition, they hastened to her bedside and with the same devotion that a mother showers affection upon her own child, so did these sisters tenderly encourage the dying young lady with words and acts of kindness.

The funeral took place Tuesday morning at Holy Rosary church, Rev. Father Galvin officiating. Solemn high mass was read and the office of the dead recited. Father Galvin's eulogy of the dead was most appropriate and practical. He drew a lesson of life and showed how beautiful it was to die a Christian, and with the fortitude that encouraged Miss Kennedy on that journey which to many is so dreadful. A beautiful white casket covered with many flowers, the remembrances of devoted friends, contained the frail body of the deceased. The Brotherhood of Railway Conductors acted as an escort to the cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest.

Will Visit Alliance.

The Burlington's seed corn and soil culture special train, which has been touring the eastern part of the state, in the interest of education will also visit Alliance when the usual lecture on the planting and care of corn and tilling of soil will be discussed by professors of the university of Nebraska who have been giving the matters years of study. It may seem strange to some that this special should be brought into what is considered an exclusive range country, but the extensive raising of corn in this section during the past few years have convinced the Burlington company and others that Box Butte county can raise corn as well as any other section of the state when the seasons are favorable. This lecture will be free to all and every farmer and ranchman is asked to call and gain the valuable information to be derived from this source. The special train, which is under the supervision of W. H. Mans, industrial agent for the Burlington, will arrive at Alliance March 24, at 6:30 in the evening, remaining here that night. Audience coaches are connected with the train. Professor Lyon of the university of Nebraska, together with other scientists, will lecture and distribute literature on soil and culture, proper seed selection and other valuable subjects in connection with farming on lands having insufficient rain fall.

The special is scheduled to stop at the following places from Ravenna west on the same date: Ravenna at 8:45 a. m., Ansley, 10:15 a. m., Broken Bow, 11:25 a. m., Theftford, 2 p. m., Hyannis, 4:30 p. m.

WHY NOT BUILD?

We will loan you the money that you need for building your house and you can return it on the monthly payment plan—a little each month. A great many people do this with the result that in a few years' time they own their home. You are foolish to continue paying rent when you can buy your home with your rent money. A good residence property in a growing and thriving town is always a first-class investment. Our interest rates are very reasonable.

Please do not forget that we write fire insurance.
